

Outcomes:

- 1) A graduate of this program will be able to demonstrate effective command of fundamental chemical concepts and application of those concepts to solve chemical problems.
- 2) A graduate of this program will understand the theory and operation of chemical instrumentation. In addition, graduates will have a practical level of ability in the evaluation and interpretation of data obtained from these instruments.
- 3) A graduate of this program will be able to effectively communicate in a scientifically appropriate style.