

IRB review timeframe:

Academic year (Fall semester and Spring semester) : Applications are distributed to reviewers at least weekly during the term. Applications will normally be reviewed within two weeks, but may take longer (i.e. need for specific reviewer expertise, full board review, additional information for the proposal, etc.).

Winter Break: Submit your application prior to Fall final exam week if you plan to collect data in December and January. Applications received during the Winter Holiday will be reviewed but may take longer than two weeks depending on reviewer availability.

Summer Sessions: Applications are reviewed monthly and may take more than two weeks depending on reviewer availability..

Special Circumstance: If the researcher has special circumstances, please alert irb@clarion.edu.